

Jake is the owner of Summit Safety Group. You may have seen him speaking at various conferences and seminars. You can also find him on YouTube where he provides weekly safety videos on various OSHA regulations, OSHA updates & other items your company should be implementing to keep your employees safe & keep OSHA out.

Jake has been personally touched by the harsh realities of workplace injuries when his father had a near death accident on a construction project several years ago. He saw the physical and psychological struggles that resulted from this injury and the years it took his father to recover. Jake and his team use countless experiences like this to fuel their purpose in educating the workplace on the value of life and all things safety.
